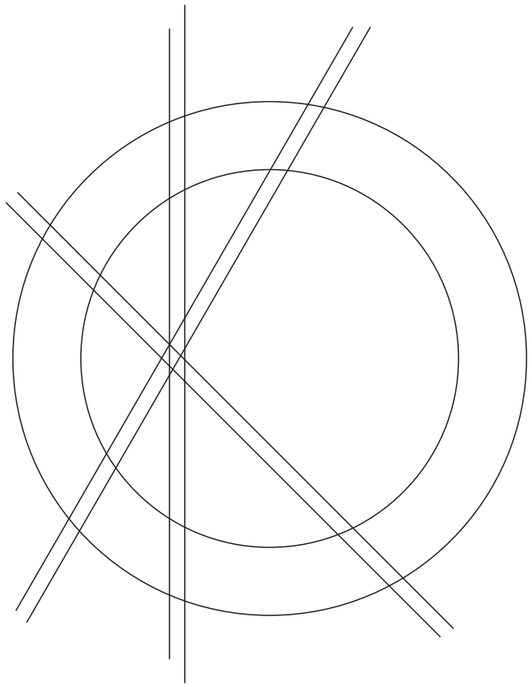
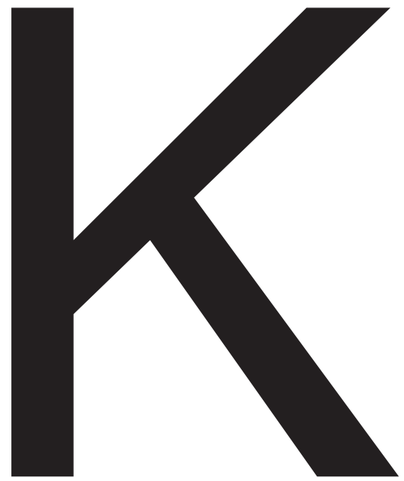
Part A:

My personal Logomark

Concept development





Final logomark and logotype design

Keletso Lehoko

Rationale:

I am a dreamer with her head in the clouds and feet planted firmly in the ground. The astronaut represents curiosity, ambition, and breaking limits. The K is the visor, representing how my identity and personal development is a perspective through which I hold my worldview and engage in my work. Purpose is important to me and my individuality allows me to continuously align myself with it in everything I undertake.

Curiosity — I ask why before I ask how Dreamer. Builder. Explorer.

Human Centred Tech
I build for people, not just convenience

Systems Thinking — I see deeper patterns where others see chaos or the obvious

Hardest to decide: what to remove. I wanted to say everything and include everything I am - designer, mother, CEO, programmer, artist, entrepreneur - but the constraint forced me to find the one true thread: I am someone who believes the future is buildable and that reality can be bent to our imagination and desire.

What I removed: my professional titles, my hopes, my work so far and what remains is my worldview and style. This design communicates my mode of moving between worlds, mainly technology and imagination as well as structure and dream. The astronaut is a symbol of exploration, the unknown, curiosity, human progress and the a thirst for knowledge and integrating different world into harmony.

What I'm working towards: Building digital experiences that are functional, meaningful, and impactful.
